Celebrate freedom from traffic and parking

MTA ROLLS OUT BETTER WAYS TO GET THERE!

Our national anthem was born in Baltimore 200 years ago, and the whole region is celebrating in style. With tall ships at the Inner Harbor, nationally-televised flag ceremonies at Fort McHenry, multiple events on the ground and the Navy's Blue Angels overhead, public transit throughout the Baltimore area can help you get the most out of this once-in-a-lifetime event. That way, you won't miss a moment by getting stuck in traffic or searching high and low for parking.

See the map for options that will get you to the heart of the action using MTA's Metro Subway, Local Bus, Light Rail, MARC Train, Commuter Bus and other public transportation options.

IT'S EASY TO GET DOWNTOWN WITH MTA

Get to all the action using Metro Subway from Owings Mills, Light Rail from Hunt Valley, BWI Airport and Penn Station, and Local Buses from all over town! The cost for these options is just $1.60 one-way or $3.50 for a Day Pass. Ample free parking is available at many Light Rail stops and Metro Subway stations.

PURCHASE A $10 STAR SPANGLED SPECTACULAR COMMEMORATIVE CHARMCARD®

This tap-and go pass comes pre-loaded with three one-day passes so you can roam freely wherever MTA Metro Subway, Local Bus and Light Rail travel. Just click on the appropriate rotating banner at mta.maryland.gov for details.

TRAVELING FROM THE WASHINGTON D.C. AREA?

MARC Train Weekend Service on the Penn Line will take you to Baltimore's Penn Station conveniently and affordably, where you can catch the Nos. 3, 11, 61 or 64 Local Bus from St. Paul Street to downtown. Light Rail direct from Penn Station will also get you downtown where you can exit at Camden Yards, then walk a few blocks to the Inner Harbor at Light and Conway streets for service to Fort McHenry via the Local Bus No. 1 and the Fort McHenry Express. Commuter Bus service Route No. 201 is available from Gaithersburg Park and Ride to the BWI Airport Light Rail Stop, where you can take Light Rail to downtown.
